RIEM BECKER A RESPONSIBLE PLAYER

- In order to avoid waste, we ask our clients to consider the type of service and typical food duration when specifying their order quantities,
- We sort waste and track its future: bio-waste, boxes, glass, paper, fat, and electronic waste.
- We use returnable glass bottles at our catered events
- Our trucks are equipped with Masternaut telematics which collects precise, reliable and secure data. This data helps us to manage delivery schedules, minimise travel, and to optimize itineraries and truck selection.

SUSTAINABLE COLLABORATION

- We welcome handicapped employees in training and operations, in partnership with the Vitry-sur-Seine ESAT "Friends of the Vitry-sur-Seine Workshop, the Gennevilliers ESAT and Val Mandé CAT".
- We are partners with Berthier ESAT, with whom, over several years, we have built a lasting working relationship to facilitate handicapped persons into the workforce

- We partner with various schools such as the IPAMRA institute which offers co-op training to attain CQP (Professional Qualification Certificate). The CQP diploma is recognized by the national education system and the profession, which helps people to enter the workforce.
- We welcome young people for training in the events field; in co-op programs, apprenticeship contracts or professionalization contracts.
- We are a founding member of the "association des traiteurs de France", an association which helps to promote the trade and interacts with all players in this profession. With 36 members, this network is at the core of culinary innovation, an association which, since its beginning, has been committed to quality and promotion of responsible events, recognized by all event professionals.
- We are committed to the reduction of waste, Riem Becker Traiteur Événementiel manages surplus food with EQOSPHERE – an organization that donates products to associations that help the less fortunate.
- Riem Becker Plateaux Repas official suppliers of COP 21.

TERMS AND CONDITIONS OF SALE 2 pages

The following terms and conditions govern relations between the service provider and the customer, also referred to as the sold-to party. By placing an order, the client explicitly declares that they have been advised of the service provider's terms and conditions, and that they accept said terms and conditions unreservedly and in their entirety.

1 - QUOTATION

The issuing of a catering service offer covers the entirety of the customer's bill of specifications while also integrating applicable sanitary measures; i.e. the definition of the menu, the number of guests, the date, time, and any additional services requested, as well as all technical specifications necessary for the service to be successfully provided. Once compiled, this data is formalised by way of a quotation indicating a price. The prices indicated on the quotation remain valid for a period of 3 months.

2 - THE CONTRACT

The purpose of the contract (commercial in nature) primarily covers the supply of catered meals and, additionally, the provision of related services. In order for the contract to be successfully fulfilled, the customer hereby agrees to supply the service provider with all information necessary for the successful performance of its services: a detailed schedule, map of spaces involved, and details of services solicited from other providers.

The quotation drawn up by the service provider constitutes the specific conditions supplementing these general terms and conditions.

Any legal dispute pertaining to this contract will fall under the jurisdiction of the Tribunal de Commerce de Créteil. The establishment of the contract is formalised via the sold-to party/customer's written acceptance firstly of the latest version of the quotation to be issued by the service provider, and secondly of these terms and conditions.

Upon receipt of their confirmation, all orders are considered final, definitive and exempt from cancellation by either party.

3 - ORDERS

3-1 VALIDATION PROCEDURE

The customer hereby agrees, upon signature of the contract, to specify the number of meals they require as accurately as possible, in accordance with France's national pact to combat food waste, of which the Traiteurs de France network is a signatory. It is the customer's responsibility to check the completeness and accuracy of the information indicated in the quotation. The latest version of the quotation validated by the customer shall serve as a reference, and the service provider may not be held responsible for any error validated by the customer. To be considered admissible, any order confirmation must be addressed in writing at least 30 calendar days prior to the date of the event.

Confirmation may only be given by the paying customer (sold-to party). The order validation is substantiated for the full range of services included in the quotation. To this end, the entire quotation along with the general terms and conditions must be signed, the final page of the quotation including an overall pricing summary which must be dated, signed, and stamped, with the following terms written out in full: the signatory's surname, first name and job title, the phrase "agreed and signed," and the customer's SIRET number and Intercommunity VAT number.

Reservation deposits: All reservations must be accompanied by the payment of a deposit at least 10 working days prior to the event, amounting to 80% of the total price stated on the quotation (taxes included). Payment of the deposit will activate preparations for the event in optimum conditions (booking of equipment and serving staff, purchase of raw materials, beverages and any sub-contracted services). If the deposit has not been fully received within 10 working days prior to the event, we reserve the right to cancel the order with the customer being ineligible to claim damages or compensation of any kind. Clients based outside France must pay a deposit amounting to 100% of the total (including taxes) no later than 10 working days prior to the event.

3-2 FULFILMENT OF THE CONTRACT

3-2-1 Information: The service provider shall be responsible for communicating to its employees and agents the practical details of service, issued by the customer prior to the event. It is the customer's responsibility to notify the service provider of any contractual modifications and/or specifications, notably those pertaining to logistics, under the conditions and in accordance with the provisions stipulated in article 4 below. It is the customer's responsibility to prepare and apply any and all measures pertaining to health protocols.

3-2-2 Delegation of authority: The contracting customer may designate a person acting as the point of contact on site on the day of the event. Should the customer have contracted the services of an organiser, this shall under no circumstances modify any of said conditions, and the organiser must assume the entirety of the customer's obligations, and in order to do so must be authorised to act in the customer's name and on their behalf.

3-2-3 Responsibilities of the customer: The customer hereby declares they are fully informed of and shall take responsibility for the various approvals and administrative authorisations which may be required for the organisation, hosting of the public, and functioning of their event. The customer hereby agrees insurance arrangements in order to cover risks of all natures associated with the event to which the order pertains, which may concern goods and persons. The cost of returning the reception area to its original condition shall be undertaken by the customer. No compensation regarding the functioning of the reception will be admissible subsequent to the date on which it occurs. Any loss, theft, damage, disappearance or breakage of materials provided to the customer and not included in the service provider's quoted price shall be invoiced at the cost of their replacement.

The contracting customer is solely responsible for the actions of participants in the event to which the order is subject, and shall take responsibility for any issues pertaining to the safety of persons and property, for carrying out identity, age and occupational checks, and for the authorisation and regulation of the consumption of alcoholic beverages; under no circumstances may the service provider's responsibility be brought to bear in these regards.

3-2-4 Food quality and hygiene: Deliveries are made by our personnel, using refrigerated vehicles within the required temperature range of 0 °C - 2 °C. Food products should be stored at temperatures of between 0 °C - 4 °C (0 °C - 2 °C for products containing raw seafood).

It is the customer's responsibility to ensure that technical resources are available on site in order to store products in appropriate temperature conditions. In the event that cold storage is not possible, fresh food products must be consumed within 2 hours and have been maintained at a core temperature less than or equal to +20°C throughout this period. To this end, the service provider may supply dry ice, with the quantity being determined based on the volume of merchandise to be kept cold and the timeframes involved.

The Customer will be invoiced for this service. In cases where consumption within 2 hours is not feasible, the service provider may also leave a refrigerated van on site for product storage, upon the customer's request. This service is not available as standard, and will be invoiced to the customer. If these temperature management conditions are not met, the service provider declines all responsibility in the event of any health issues linked to the consumption of the products. For food safety and hygiene reasons, no merchandise having been delivered in accordance with terms of the order may be returned or exchanged. Furthermore, once the service has been provided our service staff are instructed to destroy any remaining merchandise. The service provider is discharged from all liability with regard to the risk incurred in the event that the client insists on conserving the remaining products.

3-2-5 Allergens : Our products contain ingredients to which certain people may be allergic. The list of allergens contained in the ingredients knowingly included in the recipes shall be made available to the customer upon request. In addition to allergens knowingly added, it remains possible that our products contain traces of one or several major allergens listed in Annex II of EU regulation EU 1169/2011. In effect, despite every precaution being taken during preparation, unexpected cross-contaminations remain possible.

3-2-6 Waste sorting: Our commitments in terms of the sorting and recycling of waste generated by the provision of the service require that the customer provide suitable containers for waste sorting and a waste removal service.

In the event that the customer is unable to guarantee waste management measures on site, the service provider will handle waste management (sorting, storage, removal) and additional fees will be applied. Fees will also be incurred by the customer in the event that certain waste such as glass bottles, cardboard, or decorative items supplied by the customer or other service providers are removed by our staff.

3-2-7 Anti-waste measures: In the event that there remains a significant volume of excess food products which have been stored in appropriate temperature conditions, these products may be given to charity with the customer's consent.

3-2-8 Time extensions: For any service provided outside the time periods agreed upon by the parties, a staff overtime fee will be applied, the cost details of which are indicated in the quotation. Working hours are calculated based on our staff's time of departure, after clearing and vacating the reception area; any hour begun will be invoiced as a full hour.

3-3 DELIVERY

No delivery may be made without the presence of the customer or a recipient authorised to accept the delivery. The accuracy and precision of the delivery address and the availability of the recipient are essential; the service provider shall not be responsible for any error or delay caused as a result of incorrect or incomplete information. Order delivery times are provided as an estimate, and any early or late delivery made within 2 hours of the stated delivery time shall not afford the customer the right to cancel the order, refuse receipt of the merchandise or to claim any damages or compensation.

TERMS AND CONDITIONS OF SALE

In the event that the order is redirected to another delivery address, additional delivery fees shall apply. All orders must be received by the customer and checked by both parties upon delivery. Any issue or complaint must be indicated on the delivery order. Comments such as "on condition that" or "subject to unpacking" are of no legal import. In the event that the order is non-compliant or defective, our guarantee shall be limited to replacement of merchandise recognised as being non-compliant or defective, and shall exclude all other compensation.

3-4 INVOICING

The invoice shall be addressed to the customer following the event, and shall include any excess consumption, additional service hours and loss/breakage costs. The prices indicated in the quotation refer to the rates applicable during the establishment of the quotation and are listed excluding tax, subject to rates applicable at the time of receipt. Given the nature of the products we sell, via local distribution networks which may be subject to market price rises (fresh produce, food and perishables), our prices may vary or be modified without prior notice. In the event of a change in legislation, prices will be automatically readjusted (for example, in the event of a change in rates or taxes), and will result in the revision of our quotation. Our prices include the provision, by the reception site, of storage areas and apparatus for the receipt of our equipment, as well as the promotion of our expertise through our own referencing process. No form of kickback or further commission may be applied once the contract has been signed by the contracting customer.

4 - CONDITIONS OF MODIFICATION

4-1 NUMBER OF PERSONS

The quotation initially established by the service provider and accepted by the customer has been established for the specific number of participants at the customer's event. In order to be admissible, any request to modify the number of participants must reach us 7 working days prior to the date of the event, and will require written acceptance by the service provider. A new version of the modified purchase order will then be established, and must be validated by the same customer (sold-to party). If the final number of attendees should increase within the 7 working days prior to the reception, our ability to provide meals will depend on supplies available to us, and we reserve the right to replace certain products while maintaining the same level of quality.

4-2 CANCELLATION

structure:

Cancellation between 30 and 60 calendar days prior to the date of receipt: 15% of the total price quoted (including taxes)

Cancellation between 20 and 30 calendar days prior to the date of receipt: 40% of the total price quoted (including taxes)

Cancellation between 10 and 20 calendar days prior to the date of receipt: 60% of the total price quoted (including taxes)

Cancellation between 5 and 10 calendar days prior to the date of receipt: 80% of the total price quoted (including taxes)

Cancellation less than 5 calendar days prior to the date of receipt: 100% of the total price quoted (including taxes).

4-3 POSTPONEMENT

In the event that the date of the service ordered is postponed, the deposit paid shall remain in the possession of the service provider and may not be recovered.

A credit note in the amount of the sum paid will be drawn up and submitted to the customer by the service provider. This credit note will remain valid for a period of 12 months following the date of issue. After this period, the event will be considered definitively cancelled and the amounts received will remain in the possession of the service provider. An additional deposit may be claimed in the event that not only the date but also the composition of the order are revised; should this occur, an amendment to the contract will be drawn up, and the service provider reserves the right to modify the unit price and to charge for any technical, administrative and compensatory fees on behalf of its own service providers.

5 - FORCE MAJEURE

The service provider is released from all legal obligations, including payment of compensation of any sort, in the event of the occurrence of an instance of force majeure or act of God, notably including war, riots, blockages caused by full or partial strikes, fires, administrative closures by governmental decree, transport blockages, or any other external event that may disrupt the proper circulation of merchandise. By the same token, the service provider's responsibility may not be invoked for any harm or inconvenience caused by use of the internet, notably including service shutdowns, data breaches or IT viruses.

6 - INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY RIGHTS

We remind you that all event organisers must hold the intellectual property rights associated with their event. All proposals, as well as photos, videos, plans, media, templates, documents and information of any kind provided or submitted by the service provider to the customer remain the intellectual property of the former, and as such may not be communicated to any for any reason whatsoever. Unless expressly forbidden to do so by the customer, the service provider reserves the right to use photos of the event, not including of individuals or references made to the name of the customer or its participants, for its own communications (brochures, media, social networks, internet, etc.)

7- PERSONAL DATA AND PRIVACY PROTECTION

Within the normal scope of its contractual relations, the service provider may be required to collect data of a personal nature necessary to process the order. In accordance with applicable legal and regulatory provisions, in particular French law n° 78-17 of 6 January 1978 (later modified) pertaining to Computing and Civil Liberties, and the European Regulation n°2016/679/EU of 27 April 2016, the customer retains the rights of access, amendment, portability and deletion of their data, as well as limitation of its processing. The customer may also, for valid reasons, contest the processing of any data pertaining to itself. In order to exercise these rights and obtain detailed information regarding the duration of data storage, the customer should contact the service provider at the following address: 128 bis avenue Jean Jaurès - 94851 IVRY-SUR-SEINE CEDEX or by email at the following address: traitementdesdonnees@riembecker.fr.

The information gathered is used for order oversight, customer relations management and, with the user's consent, client prospecting. Access to your personal data is strictly limited to Riem Becker staff. No profiling of any kind shall be carried out, and more generally no automated decision shall be made based on the data collected. The service provider declares that it shall not sell, rent, release or grant third-party access to customer data without prior consent, unless compelled to do so for valid reasons (legal obligation, anti-fraud actions, exercising of the right of defence, etc.). The customer is hereby informed that they have the right to initiate proceedings with the Commission Nationale de l'Informatique et des Libertés (French national commission for computing and civil liberties). In the event that a photo of the event is to be used on either the service provider or customer's social media, this shall be subject to mutual validation in writing.

8- CONDITIONS OF PAYMENT

The price, including tax, must be paid upon receipt of the invoice. Specific invoicing instructions must be communicated when the order is placed. Any modification to invoicing documents (credit notes or re-invoicing) or re-issued documents (duplicates) must be requested within 24 hours following receipt of the invoice. Penalty fees applied in the event of late payment shall equal to the legal rate of interest applied by the European Central Bank plus 8 percentage points, along with a shall be due without further or prior notice. We reserve the right to request additional compensation from the customer should the recovery cost exceed this amount. All invoices presented upon delivery without a deposit must be paid in full, except when otherwise stipulated via prior written agreement. Otherwise, we reserve the right to return the merchandise to our own facilities. The payment due date for our invoices may not exceed 30 days after the date of delivery, by wire transfer or cheque. All payments by cheque must be made out to Riem Becker. No discounts shall be applied for early payment.
